Electrical Connector Kits

The electrical kits listed in the application chart are vehicle specific. Those mark P, plug into vehicle factory wiring harnesses.

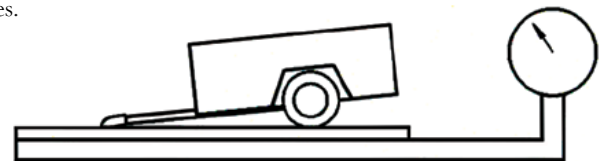

Check the year ranges. (Year ranges for wiring kits sometimes vary from the year ranges for hitches.)

Wiring kits provide 4-pin flat plug unless otherwise noted. (See page 95 for adapters to 6 and 7 pin connectors.)

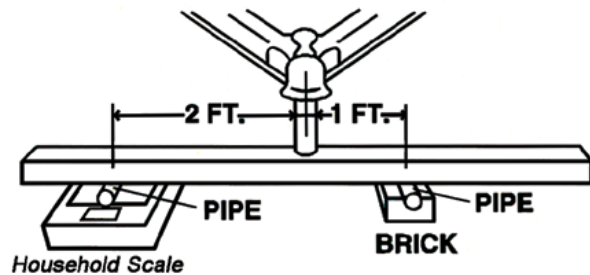

Kits marked PC need a battery wire installed to the vehicle battery.

Weight Factors

The two most important factors in selecting towing equipment are Gross Trailer Weight (GTW) and Trailer Tongue Weight (TW). GTW is the weight of the trailer fully loaded in its towing condition. GTW can be found by placing the fully loaded trailer on a vehicle scales. Tongue Weight (TW) is the weight exerted down on the hitch ball by the trailer coupler. In most cases it is about 10-15% of the GTW. TW can be found by using a household scale and a brick that is as thick as the scale set three feet apart. (See the figure below) Re-zero the scale after setting a length of pipe on each and resting a beam across the pipes.

Method for Measuring Gross Trailer Weight (GTW)

Method for Measuring Trailer Tongue Weight (TW)
 Multiply the reading on the scale by 3.

Notes and Tips

Match the tow vehicle and the trailer. For safety make sure your vehicle is capable of towing your loaded trailer. In no case should the GTW exceed the vehicle maximum towing capacity. Check your vehicle's owner's manual for towing capacity ratings and other special warnings or advice.

Air springs, air shocks, and overload springs help the tow vehicles rear suspension support TW as well as the weight of passengers and luggage. They are especially helpful on "soft sprung" vehicles or those whose springs have settled. THEY ARE NOT SUBSTITUTES FOR WEIGHT DISTRIBUTING HITCHES, since they do not redistribute the load to the front axles of the vehicle or the rear axles of the trailer, therefore you do not gain the increased steering and braking control that you gain with the weight distributing hitch.

WARNING: Never modify any piece of your towing system. Failure to heed may result in serious personal injury or death, vehicle crash, and/or property damage.
